GOLD DISCOVERY NEAR MARYSVALE

Marysville, Utah, Sept. 26.—A few weeks since the somnolent citizens of this picturesque and peaceful hamlet rubbed their eyes in the effort to discover if they were awake, or merely dreaming of the early pioneer days. Down the highway, just south of the village, wound the advance portion of a slow-moving ox-team caravan. The younger portion of the village folk had never seen an ox team. The heavy lumbering "prairie schooners," the quaint-dressed and -dressed "bullwhackers," and the "gee" and "haws" of the teamsters, as the train moved slowly through the town and down to the bottom land near the Denver & Rio Grande station, mingled strangely with the excited comments of the natives. "Where in the world did this section of the days of '49 come from?" "Where is it going?" and "What is it's business?" were some of the questions that smote an atmosphere that is nearly always surcharged with interrogation points.

Pahreah is a village situated in a narrow valley, or canyon, down through which the Pahreah "river" tumbles on its way to the Colorado river, a few miles above Lee's Ferry, in Arizona. Pahreah village has the distinction of being the extreme limit of civilization in eastern Kane county. The Pahreahs raised an abundance of fruit for home consumption, and cattle and sheep for export. Occasionally a stranger gets lost in south-central Utah, and yet more occasionally one of them drops down from the rim of the basin into Pahreah—a region unsurpassed for picturesque barrenness, desolation and isolation. The stories told by the once-a-year visiting drummers of the primordial condition of "so-called" Pahreah are at once numerous and amusing.

The chief item of scenery in the vicinity of Pahreah is a chain of blue clay hills that are almost interminable in number and variety.

Stranger Buys Land.
One morning, several years ago, and almost before the inhabitants were awake, a stranger arrived in Pahreah, and before dinner, so it is reported, he had purchased every farm and town lot in the narrow valley.

The ox train was from Arizona, and would load boilers, engines and queer-looking machinery at the Marysville station, and the destination was Pahreah. That was about all the information that the professional force of pump interviewers of Marysville could extract from the Arizona "bullwhackers" and there was no one else that could, or cared to give to the inquisitive denizens of the terminal town the coveted information.

Little by little it leaked out that the blue hills, even the sand and gravel of the Pahreah yield gold—place gold—to the amount of from 40 cents to $1.80 per square yard! The river will furnish an abundance of water. Six miles below the village is an inexhaustible supply of coal of excellent quality. In fact, the region

HIS FATHER A HUNDRED YEARS OLD THEY WERE KILLED BY ROBBERS

Judge John E. Bagley has returned from Spokane, Washington, where, on September 26, he attended a reunion of the Bagley family, that day being the 100th anniversary of the birth of the Judge's father, Mr. Bagley states that nearly all the children were present and that their father was delighted to meet them. He states that his father is enjoying fairly good health, but that he has fallen considerably since he saw him a year ago.

The children visited the elder Bagley a number of days, during which time acquaintances joined in the festivities commemorative of the century anniversary. The centenarian is totally blind and hears with difficulty, but otherwise, he enjoys life and is well and hearty. He does not move about much, however, but he sleeps well and has a good appetite.

Mr. Bagley states that his father told him he expected to live a good many years longer and that next year he wants the children to come home again on a visit.

EVEN TRADE MACHINES MUST GO

The final order for the removal of the trade machine and all other mechanical gambling devices was made by Chief of Police T. E. Browning last night. Today the machines, which heretofore had occupied conspicuous places in some saloons and cigar stores were conspicuous only by their absence.

The order taboing the slot machine was made as a part of the general order against gambling and will be carried out with the same rigidity, according to the chief of police. The order includes all machines in which there is any element of chance connected. Slot machines used merely as vendors of merchandise do not come under the police ban.

The old slot machine, in which the player received money, has long been a thing of the past in Ogden but the smaller machine, in which the player played his money against checks, representing merchandise, has continued to flourish and has heretofore not been looked upon as a gambling device.

BURGLARS IN AN OFFICE BUILDING

Some venturesome fellow ransacked the office rooms of the First National bank building last night, using a "jimmy" in some instances to force open the office doors. The lawyers remark that it is needless to say that the fellow took nothing away, because there is never anything of great value in an attorney's office.

The burglar entered the offices of Judge John E. Bagley, Attorney John Heywood and others and he also entered the office of Dr. Osgood. The desk drawers were pried open and a trunk in the Bagley office was opened. Papers were scattered about the offices, but nothing was missed.

The burglar's operation were confined to the third floor of the bank building.

MUNICIPAL COURT

In the Municipal court the Ogden Wholesale Drug company has brought suit against Dr. Fred G. Clark for $19.67 on account.

AUTO RACES AND RUGBY AT FAIR

Automobile races, motorcycle events and a football game between the Ogden High school team and the University of Utah eleven will be the principal events at the Four-State fair Saturday afternoon, the last day of the big intermountain show.

Entries are now being made in the motor events. The football game was booked yesterday. This will be the first time this season for the fast Ogden High school team to be seen in action. Silver cups will be hung up in the motor events.

The big feature of tomorrow afternoon's program will be the baby show, which will be held at 2:30 o'clock. Cash prizes and silver and gold medals will be the awards.

ONE HUNDRED MEN ARE AT WORK

Nearly a hundred men are now at work at different points along the Davis & Weber counties canal. Fifty of these men are engaged in the construction of a diversion dam across the Weber river below the Utah Light & Power house, about twelve miles from this city.

The diversion dam, which is being built, will be equipped with a steel removable gate, which will greatly facilitate the workings of the canal. In addition to the building of this dam, 500 feet of canal, near the headgate, which was not lined at the time the cementing of the waterway was done, is to be walled with cement. All of this work is being done under the supervision of City Engineer W. M. Postaph. The contract for the work was let to William Boyle.

Thirty men and ten teams are now in camp at the site of the power dam which is to be built near Riverdale. The excavating for the diverting dam has been started. Much of the material for the building of the power plant has been ordered and it is expected that there will be no break in the work of completing the plant. The plant when completed will furnish electrical power equal to five thousand horse-power.

LEGAL CONTEST OVER AN ALLEY

In Judge Harris' division of the district court this morning the consideration of the application of the city for immediate possession of property involved in the condemnation proceedings of the city against Carl Sorenson and Ida M. White was resumed.

The city seeks possession of the property so as to proceed with the opening of an alleyway from Hudson avenue to Merchants' Alley in center of the block between Washington and Hudson avenues.

Elk Jr. Suits for Youngsters

Let the boy kick around in an Elk Jr., Suit—he can't hurt it.

We venture the assertion that there are more boys wearing Elk Jr. suits to school this morning than of all other makes put together.

Elk Junior suits are the kind that make a boy feel that he's dressed just right.

The knickerbocker pants are not merely pants—they're made according to the boys' styles of fall—they're "classy"—same with the coat.

Every Elk Junior suit is all-wool—preshrunk. Bottom of the coat is faced with the goods—every pocket is of standard drill—the lining is indestructible—even the pants are lined all through—that's why they keep shape. The coat sets like a man's—and keeps its shape.

Elk suits are for boys of 6 to 16 years. No matter what the age. Let's show them. The price is... $5

No wound was found upon his head, but it is believed he fell on the back of his head and that the concussion caused a hemorrhage of the brain. The injured man was hurried to the police station and then removed to the Judge-Merrey hospital. Before the ambulance reached the hospital the Japanese was dead. The body was removed to the S. D. Evans undertaking establishment.

In the dead man's pockets were found a pair of glasses, a conductor's ticket given in return for a fare from Garfield to Salt Lake and a Japanese newspaper. There was no name. It is believed he was a smelter worker from Garfield. He was dressed in a light gray suit and was about five feet six inches tall. In his pockets was found $1.10 in silver.

GALL STONES AS DEVIL CHASERS

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The market quotation on gallstones is unchanged today at $100 a pound at the Union stock yards, where the article is sold as Chinese "devil-chasers." A. J. Little, one of the selling department of one of the large meat packing firms, said his concern marketed about eight or nine pounds a year from the cattle slaughtered. Some of them are as big as walnuts, but most are no bigger than peas. They are light and few beaves have any.

All of them are bought by Japanese, who do not use them. They ship them back to Japan to be manufactured for the Chinese trade. The Chinese beset by devils carry a piece of carved gallstone in their pockets. He believes no power can withstand the gallstone once it has been fashioned into a sufficiently terrible shape.

KIMMEL AND HIS SISTER

Miles, Mich., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Edna Bonstett of Chicago is here for the first time since the arrival here of her alleged brother, George A. Kimmel, from the Auburn, N. Y., penitentiary. Mrs. Bonstett declared that she still holds the opinion that the "inveterate man" who claims to be George Kimmel, is not her brother.

Mrs. Bonstett, who would receive $20,000 life insurance if Kimmel were dead, may have an interview with the man, recognized by many as Kimmel.

FELL OUT OF A CAR WINDOW

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 27.—Dreaming of football scrimmages in his berth in a train bound to New York, Charles Burrows, said to be a candidate for the Yale eleven, plunged through the window during the night while the train was going at full speed. He was found in pajamas, inside of which was pinned $500, by negro farm

GIRL DESIRED TO GET MARRIED

Los Angeles, Sept. 27.—Naively informing the court that she told the story which resulted in the imprisonment of her sweetheart for two months simply to hurry up a proposal of marriage which she knew was coming some time, Helen Roberts, a Monrovia girl, obtained the release today of Charles H. Thompson of Washington, D. C. She had accused Thompson of a statutory offense.

Thompson, who is 23 years old, has been in the county jail since last July, but he declared after his release that, in spite of the peculiar treatment accorded him by the girl, he still loved her, and that he probably would comply with her wish to marry her quick.

Miss Roberts is 14 years of age. When she caused the arrest of Roberts she said she was only 12.

JOHNSON-WELLS
FIGHT STOPPED.
London, Sept. 27.—The court today granted the application of the District Railway company, a ground landlord of the Earls court, for an injunction against the lessees of the building to stop the proposed Johnson-Wells fight, subject to damages if the decision is reversed on trial.
